

SNC CAMPUS CULTURE

By: Richie Gureski

INTERDEPENDENCE

At SNC, everyone's success is dependent on how well they can work with each other. Whether that involves staff and students working with each other to make an event, or students working with each other in group projects; everyone is dependent on one another in one way or another.

PERMEABILITY

By allowing many people to be included in on many aspects at SNC, everyone has a chance to be involved in both wonderful educational and social areas.

VALUES

A great example of a campus value is the notion of Communio, otherwise known as the ideal of a community being united as one. This is always showcased by students standing together in any situation.

SHARED STORIES

Many remember how scary it was being on their own for the first time at SNC. However, no one is experiencing these great new experiences at SNC by themselves.

rites and rituals

At SNC, all students get to do many fun things during their first year that is unique to them and is like a rite of passage for one's life at SNC.

HOLISM

SNC as a whole cannot exist without the wonderful people that are in it. It would not be the same way if someone was missing from our wonderful community.
