Stephen Alonzo Jackson Weekend of Giving

Beginning March 4th to March 6th, the Kappa Sigma Fraternity at Saint Norbert College will be having its annual Steven Alonzo Jackson Weekend of Giving event. This event provides a scholarship opportunity for the members of the fraternity in which they can apply. The members can apply for the scholarship on September 1st and the winner is going to be announced on December 10th. Speaking with the President of Kappa Sigma, AJ Bichler, gave his thoughts on this event and provided insight on how it provides a scholarship opportunity for members of the group. He stated that the “Stephen Alonzo Jackson Weekend of Giving is important to Kappa Sigma because it allows the group to raise awareness and increase the funds in the scholarship fund.” This event is all online and all donations are accepted to which it helps the group. Kappa Sigma was able to advertise more of this event due to the pandemic slowing down and that we are able to do more as prior to the pandemic. The pandemic took a toll on the group when COVID first occurred, and it shut down everything in which the group wasn’t able to have the event. This past year, current senior James Fitzwater was honored in receiving this scholarship with his good grades and involvement around the school. This award helped James to pay for school and that he didn’t have to worry about taking out a loan for the semester. He gave the notion of “paying it forward” in which this scholarship helps the group and allows for a member to be recognized and awarded for their work in the classroom and their involvement on campus. Applications for the 2022 Steven Alonzo Jackson scholarship will open in the fall and the winner will be announced December 10th.
